7. Description Of Incident

Anchor challenge came from clear astern and gybed onto port behind snoopy. We came to windward to protect our position, this was a small adjustment in course and slowly came up a couple of degrees. We were still on a broad reach with pole fairly far back. We hailed for anchor challenge to keep clear a number of times. We did not adjust course aggressively there was plenty of time for anchor challenge to clear our stern. They continued to progress close to our boat and their spinnaker hit our shrouds and then our pole. Our kite stayed flying the whole time during this situation and as we had not come up hard we're still able to bear away to the leeward mark.
